

Legally Binding Contract

“I think we’re going to build a really great company. But we need to do it with the power of a contract.”

—Toni Weinfurter, 20 years

Delta is more than the business suits. It’s Delta people who will make it succeed.

Fight attendants are the face of Delta, and no one does more to ensure passengers’ comfort and safety, and make them want to come back and fly with us.

So, we deserve respect for the work we do. We deserve a contract.

Everyone has a contract today – for homes, cars, cell phones, you name it. It’s a legal guarantee. We certainly need a contract for our work.

With a legally binding document, we protect ourselves, our families, our rights.

“Due process is the ability to have rights in the workplace, to defend and uphold the work rules you have, the pay and benefits you have. That’s how I see the importance of having a contract.”

—Dana Hansen, 18 years
