Confusion: Their Weapon of Choice

Although we may not know every trick and tactic Delta executives will use to keep flight attendants from winning representation and a legally binding contract, we know from experience that there's a pattern they may very well follow. Everything from making empty promises to floating outright lies about AFA.

Rumors Designed to Divide Us

The real issue is getting a legally binding contract, but Delta executives and supervisors will create all the confusion they can to obscure this crucial goal, like:

- Spreading rumors to discourage or divide us
- Making empty promises as they have before
- Avoiding honest debate on the real issues

Why would our executives deliberately mislead us? They don't want us to unite and bargain a legally binding contract – it's as simple as that.

So the next time Delta executives promise the moon, or spread rumors or lies about AFA, tell them you'd prefer the certainty of a legally binding contract.
